UNIVERSIDAD NACIONAL – UNA

Costa Rican Study Abroad

LOCATION

Universidad Nacional – UNA is located in the city of Heredia, which is the capital of the province of Heredia. Surrounded by coffee plantations, it is located in the central plateau about 7 miles from sunny San José. As a country, Costa Rica is exceptional for its ecological awareness, environmental sensitivity, and political stability.

PROGRAM DETAILS

Courses are taught in Spanish and include the following: art, history, business, economics, environment, science, philosophy and social issues, international relations, women's studies, and literature, among others. Costa Rican culture and Spanish language courses are also available for students at the high-intermediate and advanced levels. UNA provides full academic advising and course selection assistance.

In addition, the program includes a 6-day orientation program; weekend excursions; two excursions to places such as natural parks, self-sustaining communities, or eco-villages during the semester; cultural activities and social events; community service opportunities, and individual Spanish language tutoring sessions

HOUSING AND MEALS

Students are housed with a host family who provides all meals.
