

SUMMER Abroad

PHILIPPS-UNIVERSITÄT MARBURG

Peace and Conflict: Near and Middle East—
A European Perspective

LOCATION

The University of Marburg is one of the oldest German universities. In 1527, as part of the Reformation, 23-year-old Landgrave Philipp the Magnanimous founded it as the first Protestant university. It currently has about 19,300 students and 7,500 staff members.

PROGRAM DETAILS

Classes are taught in German and English in the following areas of study: political science, economics, and cultural studies. Each seminar (18 hours) lasts 2 weeks, and students can enroll in up to four classes taught in English, German, or a combination of German and English. The program fee covers two classes in addition to the German language course.

COURSES AND CREDITS

The German language course is offered at the basic, intermediate, and advanced levels and taught in small groups (no more than 15) by highly qualified instructors of German. A short oral and written language test is given on the first day of classes to determine appropriate language placement. The German language course is worth 18 credit hours (3 ECTS), and the other classes are also worth 18 credit hours (3 ECTS).
